

Two ARTSI Faculty Named to 50 Most Important African-Americans in Technology

Spelman Professor and ARTSI co-founder and PI Dr. Andrew Williams, and Winston-Salem State University CS department founder and chair Dr. Elva Jones , have been named to the 2009 50 Most Important Africa-Americans in Technology list. The list was founded in 1999 by Silicon Valley journalist John William Templeton. More information can be found on the list's web site .